Установите соответствие между заголовками 1–8 и текстами А–Г. Запишите свои ответы в таблицу. Используйте каждую цифру только один раз. В задании есть один лишний заголовок.

1. Motivating opportunity.
2. Books come first.
3. Teachers to come first.
4. Junk food – out.
5. Numbers come first.
6. Relevant for today.
7. Learn by using.
8. Fewer and worse.

A. High school students have rights protected by the Constitution like everyone else, but it is complicated. There is no one set of rules. State laws differ from federal laws, and school board regulations vary from place to place. Students discover what rights they have by trying to exercise them, and, if prevented, taking the school to court.

B. Kids who live on junk food grow up to be fat and unhealthy, so schools should teach good health. They should fill their vending machines with health foods, and lunch programs should serve nothing but nutritious meals. If some kids complain, so what? They complain about algebra, too.

C. There is a new five-year program that lets students earn a high school diploma and two years of college at no cost. It is getting kids who are at risk to become more mature in the lower grades, to take college-prep courses, study harder, and focus on a career. Once in the program, very few drop out.

D. Neuroscience (brain science) is finding out how teaching affects the brain. It has discovered pre-school kids can learn numbers and simple math because the number instinct is hard-wired in the brain. So is the language instinct, but teaching kids to read is harder. It takes longer for the brain to connect sounds with letters—up to 11 years.

E. In hard times, colleges must be relevant. Today's students want Chinese and Arabic, not Latin and Greek. Economics is in demand; and even English classes are teaching how to network, write a resume, and present oneself in an interview. It is not a good time to be a philosophy professor.

F. Computers help with drills and practice, but they are not much help in higher-level thinking. In the lower grades, money is better spent on new textbooks, music programs and the arts. In the higher grades, there is no choice. Everyone should learn to use the electronic genie.

G. The US program, No Child Left Behind, seeks to place a qualified teacher in every classroom. But where is the pool of qualified people out there waiting to teach disadvantaged kids in the cities? US policy should provide better training and support for those already teaching. They could start a new program and call it No Teacher Left Behind.

Chronic lack of sleep affects one in three British workers

One in three British workers suffers from poor sleep, research shows, with stress, computers and taking work home blamed for the lack of quality sleep. Some employees get fewer than five hours sleep a night, only one in seven feels completely refreshed when they wake and more women have poor shut-eye than men. The alarming findings emerged from a study of self-assessments completed by 38,784 staff working in the UK for firms such as telecoms firm, 02, drugs developer, Quintiles and medical technology manufacturer, Medtronic.

A third were dissatisfied with the amount and quality of their sleep, with 8.4% saying they were "very unhappy" with it, and another 24.4% describing themselves as "unhappy". When asked how they felt 30 minutes after getting up, only 15.5% said "refreshed". Of the others, 3.3% said they were "exhausted", 24% said "unrefreshed" and 57.2% were still "a little tired".

While experts say that everyone should ideally get seven to eight hours sleep a night, only 38.5% of the 38,784 respondents did so. More had between five and seven hours (45%), only a lucky 10% reported sleeping for eight to nine hours and one in 100 enjoyed more than nine hours.

When researchers combined those results to give each respondent an overall "sleep score" out of 100, some 33.8% got a mark of less than 30—the lowest category. That means someone either has, or is at high risk of developing, a sleeping problem. "This research is telling us that a large number of working adults, one in three in the UK, has a sleeping problem," said Dr Tony Massey, medical director of Vielifit, the health and productivity firm that carried out the assessments between 2009 and 2011. "A very concerning number of British workers get too little sleep." Britain is near the top of an international league table for lack of sleep. A Vielife study of 116,452 staff in America found that 23.4% scored poorly for sleep.

The extent of inadequate rest has prompted fears that many people are too tired to do their jobs properly, with some so sleep-deprived their brains are as confused as if they had consumed too much alcohol.

"Too few people practice sleep hygiene," said Massey. "That involves little things that people can do without professional help, like ensuring your room is dark and quiet, getting to bed at the same time every night—just like a two-year-old—reading a book, which is a proven relaxant, and not looking at bright screens, such as the TV or computer, for an hour before you go to bed as that will disturb your sleep."

The growing tendency for employees to do extra work in the evenings and at weekends, which may have risen in the recession, also seems to be linked to poor sleep. "More people are scrunching the golden hour before they go to sleep, and they are paying the price in that their sleep isn't refreshing and they end up in a vicious cycle of fatigue, poor productivity and then feeling that they have to do the same again the next day to compensate," said Massey.

The best guarantee of good quality shut-eye is to work five days a week and sleep seven to eight hours a night. Five-days-a-week staff had the best sleep score, while those getting seven to eight hours a night scored 72.7.

"These are very worrying findings because lack of sleep is a risk factor for a whole range of serious health problems, such as stroke and heart disease," said Massey.

Which of the following is mentioned among the reasons for poorer sleep?

1. Consumption of drugs.
2. Work for telecom firms.
3. Lack of communication.
4. Work done at home.

According to the research, just about ... percent of people have the recommended number of sleeping hours.

1. ...thirty.
2. ...ten.
3. ...forty.
4. ...twenty.

Paragraph 4 stresses that...

1. ...the number of Britons who don't get enough sleep is alarming.
2. ...the "sleep score" in Britain is relatively low.
3. ...many people in Britain are unaware of sleeping disorders.
4. ...British workers get more sleep than American ones.

The inadequate nighttime rest of employees might result in...

1. ...problems with alcohol.
2. ...lack of job satisfaction.
3. ...inefficiency at work.
4. ...brain damage.

What does "sleep hygiene" NOT involve?

1. A darkened room.
2. Professional help.
3. A relaxing book.
4. Regular bedtime.

The phrase "vicious cycle" in paragraph 7 means...

1. ...a course of everyday events.
2. ...a large amount of extra work.
3. ...a sudden wave of tiredness.

4. ...a repetitive cycle of poor sleep consequences.

What, according to the article, is important for good quality sleep?

1. Absence of health problems.
 2. A five-day working week.
 3. Five to seven hours of nighttime sleep.
 4. Higher productivity at work.

There are more than 50 different kinds of kangaroos that can be of different sizes from tiny to tall. The rat-kangaroo is the smallest and weighs only about 500 grams. The largest, the red kangaroo, can stand as tall as a man and weigh 100 kg. Kangaroos move by hopping. They have very large back legs and feet. These legs are very strong and muscular. They also have large strong tails. Thanks to the muscles, kangaroos can hop with enormous power. The large kangaroos can cover more than 60 meters with each hop. Пояснение. Dear Tom,

Thank you for your message. Im sorry for not writing you for so long. I spent my time doing a school project.

I hope that you didnt have accidents while hiking. I dont have much time on active holidays because I have a lot of homework. My family is more the stay-at-home sort, so I cant spend the time with them somehow actively. My company is my friends. And our trips are usually very jolly. We are planning to try rafting this spring, because it implies a well coordinated team work, good reaction and nerves of steel.

Anyway, youve mentioned a project. Do you like writing about events of the past? What events did you choose for your project? Are they from the same historical period?

Ive got to go as my father wants me to help him with his car.

Write back soon.

Best wishes,

Ann

Пояснение. 38.1.Sometimes people's behavior is the only thing that hinders the achievement of their goal. Especially young adults have these difficulties. While doing a project on what bad habits students have in Zetland, I have found a pie chat containing some relevant data that I am going to comment on.

According to the data, approximately third of all the students in Zetland have various problems due to gossiping, at 37%. Meanwhile, lying as well as daydreaming are also those bad habits that students usually have (21% and 20% respectively).

The data analysis reveals that procrastinating is twice as common for the students as lacking punctuality. It is quite understandable why being late is less usual: nowadays college and university courses are mostly taught online so that students should not think about how to come in time.

Obviously, bad habits can cause various problems while someone is studying. For instance, daydreaming and procrastinating result in academic achievement. Students feel lack of concentration, they do not do their projects in time. One solution to this problem may become an application created for colleges and their students where all exams, tests and projects will be included in a schedule. There also should be materials for students and it will remind young adults to their tasks promptly.

In conclusion, I firmly believe that breaking bad habits and building good ones is very important for teenagers. It will help them become responsible adults in future. (239 words)

38.2. Blogging is very popular nowadays; a lot of people have quite a wide range of reasons to do it. While doing a project on what types of bloggers are widespread in Zetland, I have found a table containing some relevant data that I am going to comment on.

According to the data, the vast majority of the respondents have named professional bloggers. The percentage of the part-time professional bloggers is 38% while the full-time professional ones have 24% of the surveyed. At the same time, company owners also blog quite often, due to the opinion polls 13% of the respondents have mentioned them.

The data analysis reveals that starting blogging in order to do hobby is twice as popular as doing it to promote a company what a person works for. To my mind, people nowadays feel the need for sharing their interests with someone, and personal blog becomes a great opportunity to realize it.

It is worth mentioning, that a person can face a variety of problems while blogging. One of them is rudeness, some followers express it in their comments from time to time. It is rather difficult not to react to unpleasant words which can really hurt. The best solution to this problem is to block users who cannot express their opinion politely.

In conclusion, I firmly believe that bloggers have a major impact on teenagers, as the internet has become the main source of information in the modern world. That is why people should think carefully before they write something in their blogs.

Пояснение. Hey, Kate. You know what? I've just found two pictures suitable for our project "City Transport". Let me tell you a bit more about them.

These pictures are relevant to our project because there are different kinds of city transport. In the first photo there is a bus on the street. There is its route written on it. I suppose it's a Greek bus because this language looks like Greek. In the second picture there is another type of transport—a train. It is standing on the station. There are some people on the station too. It can be also another type of public transport—a metro. There are a few differences to illustrate our project better. Obviously, both of the pictures show different kinds of transport. The main difference is between the transport itself. Buses work on fuel or gas, while trains need only electricity.

In my opinion, both means of transport have their advantages. For instance, going by bus people can admire wonderful views of the city. As for the underground, this kind of city transport is the fastest. Of course, the two means of transport have disadvantages too. For example, traffic jams can make traveling by bus really awful. Meanwhile, the underground is usually crowded.

As for me, I can say that I prefer trains, because firstly it's more ecological type of transport. Secondly, trains are usually much more comfortable transport to travel on a long distance.

So, shall we use these photos in our project? Call me when you're ready to discuss if we can use them. Bye-bye.
