Установите соответствие между текстами A–G и заголовками 1–8. Запишите свои ответы в таблицу. Используйте каждую цифру только один раз. В задании один заголовок лишний.

- 1. Humans cause harm
- 2. Where is the taiga found?
- 3. Clever habits
- 4. Adding two more
- 5. Young and beautiful
- 6. Surviving flora
- 7. What’s the weather like?
- 8. Native people’s habits

A.The taiga biome stretches across the Northern Hemisphere. It takes in large areas of North America and Eurasia, especially Canada and Russia, respectively. It also spans across Alaska and Scandinavia. The taiga biome occupies about 27% of the Earth’s surface. It is located south of the tundra biome, which is characterized by a frozen land and constant snow. Because of its location, the taiga biome is rather cold. It is to the north of the temperate forests and grasslands, which are much warmer.

B.There are cold winds that blow cold Arctic air into the taiga biome, making it very cold most of the year. Therefore, this climate is called the subarctic climate. The earth rotates around the sun annually. Due to the tilt of the sun, the taiga biome faces away from the sun, resulting in long snowy winters, which are extremely cold. Another effect is that there is less radiation from the sun to heat the land up. For these reasons, the summer is barely three months long, and the winter is double that.

C.The taiga is home to various species of plants. These plants are used to an extremely cold climate and mainly consist of coniferous trees, evergreens, and spruces. The absence of sunlight in the biome is an important factor, which means plants must have adaptable leaves. The evergreens have green leaves throughout the year, so they have enough food due to the presence of chlorophyll in their leaves. They keep the same leaves for a very long time, enabling them to use minimal solar energy.

D.There is a limit to the number of animals that can survive in the taiga, due to the cold temperatures. Still, there are many animal species, including mammals, birds, and insect species. Like the taiga plants, animals in the biome must have adaptive features to survive in this climate. During the summer, more animals are in sight than during the winter. This is because most of them either migrate to warmer biomes where they can cope easily, especially for birds, or spend the winter sleeping until the next summer season.

E.Surprisingly, there are six seasons, as identified by the native people of the boreal forest or taiga. The seasons are spring, break-up, summer, autumn, freeze-up, and winter. The period in October, when the trees lose their leaves and the lakes become frozen, is known as freeze-up. This period occurs after autumn and ends when winter starts. The other period is when the snow melts, and the ground looks bare. This season is called the break-up season and may last quite long — until all the ice in the lakes has melted.

F.Compared to certain trees that grow in more temperate climates, most of the trees in the boreal forest or taiga are young. Forests are typically less than 100 years old throughout the western boreal zone, and mainly younger than 200 years old in the eastern boreal zone. Due to frequent natural disasters that are the result of an ecological loop that renews the boreal forest, scientists do not believe this amazing forest to be ancient. But they all agree that it is the largest biome on land.

G.The boreal forest contributes greatly to the earth’s oxygen supply by collecting carbon dioxide produced by people. It helps a lot in the preservation of the ozone layer thanks to its green vegetation. However, human activities such as deforestation are destroying the boreal forest’s structure. When a tree is harmed, it takes a long time to grow back, because the biome has an extremely slow growth rate. That’s why the boreal forest has drawn the attention of the environment protection specialists worldwide.

The Lawn Chair Flyer

Larry Walters was a truck driver who always dreamed of flying. When he couldn't get into the U.S. Air Force, he came up with a new plan. One sunny day in July of 1982, Larry made history A_____ near Los Angeles, California.

Larry tied 45 weather balloons to a lawn chair and used helium tanks to fill the balloons. Weather balloons are the balloons used by weather services to measure atmospheric pressure, temperature, humidity and wind speed by a special instrument. Sitting in his sturdy chair B_____, Larry ordered his friends to cut the anchor rope. But instead of rising slowly to a height of 100 feet C_____, Larry's aircraft rushed skyward. It rose to over 16,000 feet in the air. The truck driver D_____ was suddenly in airplane territory— in a lawn chair!

Fortunately, Larry had brought along an air gun and a two-way radio. He used the radio to communicate E_____. He also shot a few balloons with the air gun to lower his aircraft. However, the lawn chair eventually drifted into some power lines, causing a power outage in the nearby city of Long Beach.

After his historic flight, Larry had to pay a fine to the Federal Aviation Administration for flying an uncertified aircraft. He complained that the Wright brothers, F_____, had also flown uncertified aircrafts. Later, Larry said, "I fulfilled my dream. But I wouldn't do this again for anything."

- 1. as he had expected
- 2. like many pilots before them
- 3. when he took flight in a homemade aircraft
- 4. with surprised emergency officials
- 5. with no flight experience
- 6. inventors of the first airplane
- 7. like the proud captain of a ship

Getting What He Deserved?

There were seven or eight of us in the line, waiting to pay the cashier for our lunches. We were all in a hurry because that's the way of the American business-day lunch. At the front of the line there was a pretty woman with a small boy of about eight. He was a cute little fellow wearing black jeans, white sneakers and a blue pullover sweater. A shock of dark hair fell over his eyes. He looked very much like his mother. The boy had a charming face with chiseled features but he was depressed.

As the woman fumbled in her purse, looking for money to pay her check, the kid noticed a display of candy bars beside the cash register and immediately wanted one.

"You can't have any candy," said his mother. "You had a pie with your lunch." She took out her handkerchief, then put it back and went on fumbling in her purse.

"But I want some candy," said the kid. His tone was surprisingly insistent. Almost aggressive.

The mother continued her search for money in her purse, and the kid continued to whine about the candy. Then he began to stamp his feet and shout.

The rest of us in line were beginning to get fidgety. We bunched a little closer together and several folks began mumbling under their breath. "Ought to snatch him bald," said one man quietly.

The kid by now was reaching for the candy display in open opposition to his mother. She grabbed his arm and pulled it away, but not before he clutched a Snickers bar in his hand.

"Put it back," she said.

"No!" shouted the child. It was an arrogant "No!"

The line bunched even more closely together, and the man who had suggested snatching the kid bald appeared ready to do so himself. So much for the kid's shock of dark hair, I thought.

But the mother moved suddenly and with purpose. She paid the cashier, took back her change and dropped it into her purse. Then with one quick motion, she grabbed hold of the child's pullover sweater and lifted him off the floor. The moment his sneakers came back to earth, she turned his back toward her and began flailing him. A look of disbelief came across the kid's face. His eyes filled with tears. He tried to break away but that made his mother flail him again.

When she had finished administering the punishment, she turned the child around and pointed a finger squarely in his sobbing face. With a voice strong and certain, she said, "The next time I tell you do something, young man, will you do it?"

The child looked at the floor. Meekly and sincerely, he replied, "Yes, ma'am."

The mother turned to go. The child returned the Snickers bar without further hesitation and marched dutifully out behind her.

The people in a line broke into spontaneous applause.

"Did the kid deserve the punishment he had? What would I do if I were his mother? She may have been absolutely right for all I know. I have no children. I have no right to argue with the mother" I thought. "There is nothing I can do but wait. Perhaps the best way to get an idea of normal behavior of children is to get married and raise a few."

The people in the cafe were all in a hurry because...

1. ...they had to buy their lunch far away from the office.
2. ...they wanted to be the first in line to pay for the food.
3. ...it was the way they normally behaved at lunch time.
4. ...they had to buy their lunch before the cashier left for her lunch.

1. ...pay for her food.
2. ...buy a candy bar.
3. ...find her phone.
4. ...pay with a check.

The mother would not let the child buy a candy bar because she...

1. ...didn't have enough money to pay for it.
2. ...was unreasonably strict with the little kid.
3. ...thought that he had enough candy already.
4. ...didn't trust the quality of the candy from the display.

The boy was persistent in getting what he wanted and the people in the line...

1. ...supported him.
2. ...started to show irritation.
3. ...started to shout at the kid.
4. ...remained indifferent to the incident.

Judging by the child's reaction to the punishment we can say that...

1. ...it did not teach him anything.
2. ...he wasn't used to being punished.
3. ...he was indifferent to being punished.
4. ...he wasn't ready to change his behavior.

The people in a line broke into spontaneous applause because the child...

1. ...was forced to obey.
2. ...managed to get his way.
3. ...had already eaten the candy bar.
4. ...manipulated his mother skillfully.

Reflecting on the incident the narrator thought that...

1. ...the mother had overreacted.
2. ...the mother was right in her reaction.
3. ...he/she wanted his/her own children badly.
4. ...one should be a parent to have a right to judge.

The prize

William and Philippa were rivals. They were considered the best students at New College. At the beginning of the third year they applied for the Charles Oldham Shakespeare prize for an essay. The chosen theme for the prize essay that year was "Satire in Shakespeare". Troilus and Cressida clearly called for the most attention, but both students 30_____ to find satirical nuances in almost every play by Shakespeare. "I couldn't agree with you more," said William. "But 35_____, when you discover who has won the Charles Oldham, you will know who was awarded less."

It turned 36_____ that the examiners felt unable on this occasion to award the prize to one person and had therefore decided that it should be shared by William and Philippa.

All diamonds are formed under immense heat and pressure beneath the earth and are brought to the surface in volcanic eruptions. They are formed between 100 miles underground. Most are found inside a volcanic rock and mined in areas where volcanic activity is still common. Any other diamonds are found loose.

Twenty countries in the world produce diamonds. South Africa is now the fifth largest. Diamonds are made of pure carbon. So is graphite, the stuff that the lead in pencils is made from, but with the carbon atoms arranged differently. Diamond is one of the hardest naturally occurring substances on earth, but graphite is one of the softest with a score of one and a half. The largest known diamond is 2,500 miles across and measures ten billion trillion trillion carats. Found directly above Australia the diamond sits inside the star Lucy.

Пояснение. Dear Sammy,

Thank you for your message. Im sorry for not writing you for so long. I spent my time doing a school project.

I hope that all your efforts will show a great result. I try to care more about my health lately: I try to avoid unhealthy and fat food. Also, I train every morning and go to the gym. I eat cereals, yoghurt and fresh fruit for breakfast instead of sandwiches and I take vegetables as snacks to school. You know, my mum is a vegetarian so she supports me a lot and. As for my little sister, she shares my new tastes too.

Anyway, youve mentioned your new school. What is your new school look like? What facilities does it have? What school clubs are there?

Looking forward to your answer.

Best wishes,

Kate

Пояснение. 38.1. Nowadays many people think that studying at school is an essential part of life and a lot of very important decisions are usually made in this period. The aim of the project I am currently working on is to find out more about it. As part of my project, I have found and analyzed some data on the favourite school subjects of teenagers in Zetland.

According to the data, the adolescents in Zetland have quite a wide range of disciplines to study. Obviously, the most popular of them is Mathematics, 40% of the respondents have chosen it. Also, Literature as well as History is very interesting for the teenagers (23% and 21% respectively). At the same time, Chemistry and Physics are at the bottom of the table.

It is worth mentioning that Physics is three times less popular than History. To my mind, the main reason is that the teenagers prefer reading stories about the past as it seems easier to them than learning Newton's laws of motion.

Statistics reveal one problem connected with studying, only 9% of the respondents prefer Chemistry to other subjects. Lack of interest to learning about the chemical elements and formulas is a great problem nowadays, as it is necessary to become a doctor. One solution to it is to include practice-based courses to the educational programme. It may be everyday chemistry or cosmetic chemistry.

In conclusion, I firmly believe that studying a wide variety of school subjects is very important nowadays. I think all these disciplines broaden their horizons. (255 words)

38.2. There is a public belief that if you choose a job you love, you will never have to work a single day in your life. While doing a project on the kinds of careers teenagers in Zetland are thinking of pursuing, I have found a pie chart containing some relevant data that I am going to comment on.

According to the data, the adolescents have quite a wide range of tastes when it comes to future job. It is clear that economics is attractive for 33% of the respondents. Programming ranks second in popularity with 20% of the surveyed teenagers as well as psychology going third with 19%. Interestingly, 14% of the adolescents don't mind earning their living as journalists.

The statistics analysis shows that engineering, chosen by 12% of the respondents, is nearly three times less popular than economics. To my mind, the reason is that the teenagers consider a job with numbers easier and less responsible.

Although adolescents like playing different professional roles, usually they do not know what qualities and knowledge they will really need to make their dream come true. Thus, they sometimes make wrong choices and this seems to be a problem. To solve the problem, it is necessary to organize special courses in order to teenagers can visit work places and understand what people really do there and what skills they need.

In conclusion, I firmly believe that choosing a career early is very important. Their future career will depend on their desire, determination and perseverance. (252 words)

Пояснение.

1. online:1443 education became much more prevalent in the last two years. Moreover, IT has become more and more popular among students, so many schools continue to improve the computers that they provide for IT lessons.
 2. I don't think online:1443 classes will ever replace real life lessons. The ability to see people right next to you allows students to focus better on the material and learn more effectively.
 3. I think schools should focus more on IT lessons. IT has become increasingly important in recent years and having knowledge in it has become an important skill in the modern world.
 4. I believe that Steve Jobs is the greatest IT engineer. He revolutionised the world of mobile devices and made modern technology much more popular with the kids of 2000s.
 5. My best friend is planning to get a degree in software engineering. He wanted to work in IT since he was 12 years old and I am sure that he will succeed in finding a suitable job in the future.

Пояснение. Hey Kate! So, I found two photos for our "Weekend Activities" project, and I wanted to tell you about them. In the first photo, there are two girls sitting on a couch, laughing and playing video games. There are chips and cola on the table in front of them. In the second photo, three girls are riding bikes on a sunny day, surrounded by trees. They look really happy.

The two photos show different kinds of weekend activities. The first one is about staying inside and having fun with friends, while the second one shows outdoor activity and exercise. Both activities have their advantages. For the first one, it's easy and relaxing — there's no need to leave home, and it's a great way to unwind with friends. But the downside is, it can be too sedentary, and it doesn't give you much physical exercise.

On the other hand, riding bikes outdoors is a great way to stay active, enjoy nature, and socialize. It's a healthy option, but it can also be tiring and depends on the weather, which might not always be ideal.

Personally, I prefer outdoor activities like biking because I love spending time in nature and staying active. Plus, I think it's more enjoyable to be outside in the fresh air.

Let me know what you think about these ideas for our project!
