Установите соответствие между заголовками 1–8 и текстами A–G. Запишите свои ответы в таблицу. Используйте каждую цифру только один раз. В задании есть один лишний заголовок.

- 1. Thoughtless behaviour.
- 2. Benefits of private business.
- 3. Too complicated to use.
- 4. Bad for business.
- 5. Science brings hope.
- 6. Road incident.
- 7. More parking places.
- 8. Personal choice.

A. City centre parking is expensive and many important roads are now closed to private transport. This would be fine— if public transport was cheap and convenient, but it is neither. The result is that people are avoiding the city centre so restaurants, cinemas and shops are closing.

B. The motorcyclist drew along side and I heard abusive language as he banged on the car roof. I immediately locked the car doors and tried to work out what was wrong. He then shouted that I had almost collided with him. Truth to tell— I didn't see him until now. I tried to apologize but he wouldn't listen.

C. They now have cars that run on electricity, solar power and even on vegetable oil. New petrol engines are super efficient and make less harmful emissions. More people are working from home because of advances in communication technology and computer security. At last we have some grounds for optimism.

D. As she approached the traffic lights the driver in front of her tipped out a mess of fast food boxes, polystyrene cups and chip bags. She pressed her horn angrily. "Why don't people consider what they do", she wondered helplessly. "Someone will have to clear this up and we all have to pay for it."

E. Sarah has worked for herself more than 10 years now. It had been risky but now her interior decoration business is a success. She loves being her own boss. It constantly amazes her that her friends in big corporations believe they have job security. How can they think this way when these companies are constantly firing people to make bigger profits?

F. It was not easy deciding. It never is when buying a new car. Reliability and comfort are big issues as are fuel economy, maintenance and so forth. A car has to feel right as well. Price and value for money are also critical. But in the end Ralph made his decision confident that it was just the right one for him.

G. Jane studied the small print. To make a successful insurance claim for her accident she needed so much information. Several complicated forms took hours to complete. She then needed three independent quotations, a witness statement, and a police statement and after everything she still had to pay the first $500 anyway.

Decathlon

The decathlon is one of the most iconic events in sports. The name comes from the Greek words deca, meaning "ten," and athlon, meaning "contest," A _____. First introduced to the Olympic Games in 1912, the decathlon honors ancient Greek athletes who competed in the original Olympic Games. Many of those early games focused on running, jumping, and throwing events, B _____.

The decathlon, C _____, includes ten separate track and field events, with five events scheduled for each day. The 100-meter dash kicks off the decathlon, requiring explosive speed as athletes sprint a distance roughly the length of a football field in mere seconds. Events like the long jump and high jump give athletes three attempts to achieve their best scores. The shot put demands immense power as competitors throw a heavy, 16-pound metal ball as far as possible. This event is followed by the 400-meter run, D _____.

Day two opens with the 110-meter hurdles, where athletes must jump over ten barriers, E _____, while maintaining top speed. Next is the discus throw, in which athletes throw a four-pound metal disc.

One of the most challenging events is the pole vault, which requires an athlete to sprint and use a pole to vault over a high bar without knocking it down. The decathlon concludes with the javelin throw and the 1500-meter run, F _____ after days of intense physical effort.

- 1. which are now classified as track and field
- 2. where endurance is critical
- 3. which wraps up the first day
- 4. giving them the title of 'the world's greatest athlete'
- 5. each three-and-a-half feet tall
- 6. which fittingly describes this competition of ten events
- 7. which is a two-day contest

Meat eaters — you are daredevils or dumb. Or both.

I am a vegetarian as well as my parents and all my family members. I've been a vegetarian for as long as I can remember. There have been times during my years of vegetarianism when I've wondered if I may indeed grow out of it. I've wondered if there might come a day when I'll put aside my childish aversion to the thought of dead stuff travelling through my intestines, like a corpse on a raft ride.

However, it could never happen, and not because I'm so enlightened, sensitive or any of the other euphemisms for "whining hippie" usually dumped on vegetarians. My conversion to flesh-eating couldn't happen because, frankly, I'm not stupid enough. As in, I can read.

Analysis of more than 6,000 pancreatic cancer cases published in the British Journal of Cancer says that eating just 50g of processed meat a day (one sausage or a couple of slices of bacon) raises the likelihood of pancreatic cancer by a fifth. 100g a day (the equivalent of a medium burger) raises it by 38%, 150g by 57%. Men are worst hit, as they tend to eat the most processed meat. And while pancreatic cancer is not the most common of cancers, it's frequently diagnosed late, with four-fifths of sufferers dying within a year of diagnosis.

It should be pointed out that this is about processed meat. However, many past studies have stated a probable link between too much meat and all manner of cancers and heart problems, as well as links to other conditions, from diabetes and high blood pressure to obesity and Alzheimers.

If, by now, you're thinking that I'm out to shock you, then you couldn't be more wrong. I'd be shocked if any of this was considered new enough to shock anyone. This information has popped up regularly for years in all forms of popular media— newspapers and numerous TV and radio programs, to say nothing of the Internet. Indeed, in this era of info overload, if you've never come across the "burgers and kebabs are unhealthy" revelation, one would have to presume you've been lying in a coma.

Sympathy is in short supply these days. You can't move for people being blamed for their own miserable situations: smokers who "burden" the NHS; alcoholics who don't "deserve" liver transplants; obese people who "should" pay more for flights. By this logic, people who've been regularly informed of the dangers of meat, particularly the cheap processed variety, but who continue to wolf it down should be held just as accountable.

Yet if these meat eaters are mentioned at all, it's in general poor lifestyle terms, as an afterthought to drinking, smoking, and lack of exercise. You just don't get people making emotional pronouncements about bacon lovers not deserving cancer treatment or kebab fans burdening the NHS.

It's not as if they haven't been warned countless times about the dangers— how willfully ill-informed can people be? Or maybe they're just hard. In fact, when I say I'm not dumb enough to eat meat, I should probably add brave enough. With so much frightening information, so readily available for so long, the modern committed carnivore must have nerves of steel. And yet, we should admit it, meat eaters still predominate and even grow in number. Must all of them be deaf and blind, and immune to a general sense of self-safety?

Speaking about her vegetarianism, the author admits that...

1. ...it is the result of her childhood experiences.
2. ...there were times when she thought she might abandon it.
3. ...it was provoked by the sight of corpses.
4. ...she became a vegetarian out of fashion.

According to the author, how much of processed meat a day is enough to raise the chance of pancreatic cancer by more than a half?

1. 50–100 g.
2. Less than 50 g.
3. From 150 g.
4. 100–150 g.

"This" in paragraph 4 stands for...

1. ...death.
2. ...diagnosis.
3. ...information.
4. ...pancreatic cancer.

Why does the author think that her information can't be shocking?

1. It's not news.
2. It's outdated.
3. It's not proven.
4. It's too popular.

Saying "sympathy is in short supply these days", the author means that...

1. ...people tend to blame sick people in their sickness.
2. ...meat eaters do not deserve her sympathy.
3. ...society neglects people who have problems.
4. ...overweight people should pay more.

The author is disappointed that eating meat is not...

1. ...officially prohibited.
2. ...considered as bad as drinking and smoking.
3. ...related to a poor lifestyle.
4. ...recognized as a major life-risking habit.

The author believes that meat eaters are very...

1. ...aggressive.
2. ...irresponsible.
3. ...pessimistic.
4. ...ill-informed.

Antarctica is the driest place on Earth. Parts of the continent have seen no rain for two million years. A desert is technically defined as a place that receives less than 10 inches of rain a year. The Sahara gets just 1 inch of rain a year.

As well as the driest place on Earth, Antarctica can also claim to be the wettest and the windiest. Seventy percent of the world's fresh water is found there in the form of ice, and its wind speeds are the fastest ever recorded. The unique conditions in the Dry Valleys of Antarctica are caused by so-called katabatic winds. These occur when cold, dense air is pulled downhill simply by the force of gravity. Though Antarctica is a desert, these completely dry parts of it are called, somewhat ironically, oases. They are so similar to conditions on Mars that NASA used them to test the Viking mission.

Пояснение. Dear Sandy,

Thanks for your e-mail. I'm always happy to hear from you.

Its great that you had an international cuisine day in your school cafeteria! Well, let me tell you about my school cafeteria. So, traditional soups, salads, meat and fish dishes with rice or pasta are usually served in my school cafeteria. They are quite tasty and cheap. However, I prefer brining my lunch from home as Im a vegetarian. Also, it saves my time because I dont have to stand in a line. Moreover, our lunch break is only twenty minutes.

By the way, its great that you've started doing yoga. Is your yoga teacher young? Has he/she got any certificates? Is he/she nice?

Thats all for now. Looking forward to hearing from you.

Best wishes,

Dana

Пояснение. 38.1. Nowadays many people think that studying at school is an essential part of life and a lot of very important decisions are usually made in this period. The aim of the project I am currently working on is to find out more about it. As part of my project, I have found and analyzed some data on the favourite school subjects of teenagers in Zetland.

According to the data, the adolescents in Zetland have quite a wide range of disciplines to study. Obviously, the most popular of them is Mathematics, 40% of the respondents have chosen it. Also, Literature as well as History is very interesting for the teenagers (23% and 21% respectively). At the same time, Chemistry and Physics are at the bottom of the table.

It is worth mentioning that Physics is three times less popular than History. To my mind, the main reason is that the teenagers prefer reading stories about the past as it seems easier to them than learning Newton's laws of motion.

Statistics reveal one problem connected with studying, only 9% of the respondents prefer Chemistry to other subjects. Lack of interest to learning about the chemical elements and formulas is a great problem nowadays, as it is necessary to become a doctor. One solution to it is to include practice-based courses to the educational programme. It may be everyday chemistry or cosmetic chemistry.

In conclusion, I firmly believe that studying a wide variety of school subjects is very important nowadays. I think all these disciplines broaden their horizons. (255 words)

38.2. There is a public belief that if you choose a job you love, you will never have to work a single day in your life. While doing a project on the kinds of careers teenagers in Zetland are thinking of pursuing, I have found a pie chart containing some relevant data that I am going to comment on.

According to the data, the adolescents have quite a wide range of tastes when it comes to future job. It is clear that economics is attractive for 33% of the respondents. Programming ranks second in popularity with 20% of the surveyed teenagers as well as psychology going third with 19%. Interestingly, 14% of the adolescents don't mind earning their living as journalists.

The statistics analysis shows that engineering, chosen by 12% of the respondents, is nearly three times less popular than economics. To my mind, the reason is that the teenagers consider a job with numbers easier and less responsible.

Although adolescents like playing different professional roles, usually they do not know what qualities and knowledge they will really need to make their dream come true. Thus, they sometimes make wrong choices and this seems to be a problem. To solve the problem, it is necessary to organize special courses in order to teenagers can visit work places and understand what people really do there and what skills they need.

In conclusion, I firmly believe that choosing a career early is very important. Their future career will depend on their desire, determination and perseverance. (252 words)

1. I live in Saint Petersburg, which is in the northwest of Russia. It is famous for being the second largest city in the country, and the most touristic one.
 2. There are some traditional sports in my part of the country, for instance, various winter sports, like cross-country skiing and figure skating. Winters in my region are cold and snowy so that people traditionally like these kinds of sport.
 3. I live near the park so I have a lot of opportunities to keep fit. I go jogging in the morning or in the evening. Also, there is a sports ground in the park and sometimes I have a good workout there.
 4. When I was a little kid, I did different sports. They were cross-country skiing, tennis and swimming.
 5. I would like to try playing football in the future. A new football stadium is going to be opened in my area, so I think I will be able to try.

Пояснение. Hey, Kate. You know what? I've just found two pictures suitable for our project "Preparing for exams". Let me tell you a bit more about them.

They are relevant to our project because in both pictures we can see students preparing for their exams. In the first photo there is a girl doing some tasks in her room. While in the second photo there is a group of students sitting around the table in the library and reading books. There are a few differences to illustrate our project better. For example, the first picture depicts an individual work, the girl is preparing for exams alone, maybe she is attending some online:1443 courses, whereas the second picture shows a group work, four students are preparing for exams together.

In my opinion, both ways of preparing for exams have their advantages. For instance, a student working alone can concentrate on studying and work at his own pace. At the same time, co-working provides the opportunity to share ideas and discuss various strategies. Of course, the ways of preparing for exams have disadvantages too. For example, an individual work can not enable students to ask for help if a problem seems to be too difficult. Meanwhile, working in a group can be awkward as everybody is chatting.

Personally, I prefer preparing for exams in my friends' company as we can analyze, discuss and solve problems together. It helps me very much.

So, shall we use these photos in our project? Call me when you're ready to discuss if we can use them. Bye-bye.
